Ceramic Mechanical Birds - Leicester College Level 2 Art and Design students, 2022/23 Cohort

Leicester College Level 2 Art and Design students, 2022/23 Cohort

Ceramics

A selection of Leicester College Level 2 Art and Design students, 2022/23 Cohort. These mechanical bird forms are made in ceramics and have been glazed using engobes and oxides. Ceramic pieces have been designed and made individually. The inspiration comes from broken electronics, such as PCB boards, internals of disused electronics and some mechanical objects. They have been impressed and decorated using the mechanical objects and extrusions of clay to adorn the surface. Students have used slab building techniques and earthstone clay to create their pieces.

Artist Bio

The images provided shows a selection of pieces so feel free to choose one or all of them if allowed. These students have been working on formative pieces prior to these so are utilising their skills and using previous knowledge to create something with some help from the tutors. Students are on a BTEC Level 2 in Art and Design.
