Dementia

Sally Scott

Glass, blown and kiln fused.

Sally Scott is a designer-maker specialising in contemporary glass. She takes inspiration from her background and interest in the understanding of scientific processes. Her collection is based on Dementia, a progressive condition affecting the brain. She has used a range of techniques to explore the interrelationships between opacity, colour, and light to create unique pieces which aim to illustrate how memories can become increasingly fragmented and distorted in dementia sufferers. Her Memory Jars contain carefully chosen images to act as a catalyst for an enjoyable conversation.
